

Hearing loss article in the Enquirer

Regardless of your age, NOW is a good time to get a hearing test. See an Audiologist, a university trained professional educated to evaluate and rehabilitate hearing loss. Get a baseline. Find out your current hearing levels. If your hearing is good, do everything you can to protect it.

If you have a hearing loss, get some help. Hearing aids do make a significant difference in improving the hearing of those who wear them; however, there is nothing as good as normal hearing. For those who think they can get by with untreated hearing loss, they should know that the symptoms of untreated hearing loss are very similar to Alzheimer's disease.

Laurie DeWine, Au.D, CCC-A

Doctor of Audiology
The Place for Better Hearing